

Douglas Dynamics Appoints Jon Sievert as President of Work Truck Solutions

March 12, 2019

Current President of Dejana, Andrew Dejana, to Retire

MILWAUKEE, March 12, 2019 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Douglas Dynamics, Inc. (NYSE: PLOW), North America's premier manufacturer and up-fitter of work truck attachments and equipment, today announced that Jon Sievert has been appointed President, Work Truck Solutions, effective immediately. In this new role Sievert will assume responsibility for Dejana Truck & Utility Equipment (Dejana) and will continue to lead the Company's municipal snow and ice control offering. In conjunction with this change, current President of Dejana, Andrew Dejana, will retire from the Company on April 19, 2019 and will continue in a consulting role going forward.

"On behalf of everyone at Douglas Dynamics I want to thank Andy Dejana for his significant contributions to the Company over the past three years. During that time, I've developed an even greater appreciation for Andy's unwavering commitment to earn our customers' business every day. Moving forward, we carry a great sense of responsibility to build upon and grow what Andy and his father Pete created, which we fully intend to fulfill. We wish Andy the very best in retirement and look forward to utilizing his expertise in a consulting role as we continue to grow the business," said Bob McCormick, President and Chief Executive Officer of Douglas Dynamics.

Jon Sievert is an industry veteran who has served the Company in several important roles over the past decade. In addition to leading the Company's municipal snow and ice control offering, Sievert previously served as Director of Operational Excellence, where he was instrumental in the development of the Douglas Dynamics Management System (DDMS). Sievert currently sits on the board of the National Truck Equipment Association (NTEA) and has established strong relationships with both OEMs and customers across the industry.

McCormick explained, "Jon is ready to expand his role and his diverse experience, industry knowledge, and focus on operational excellence equips him well for assuming these new responsibilities. We believe the exemplary leadership that Jon has exhibited over the years bodes well for the future success of our Company."
